Get ready to read, because Bookstock is back! Metro Detroit's largest used book and media sale where all proceeds benefit literacy and education projects in metropolitan Detroit, will be held Sunday, April 26 through Sunday, May 3 at Livonia's Laurel Park Place. The Detroit News Columnist Neal Rubin and Detroit Free Press Columnist Rochelle Riley are Honorary Co-Chairs of Bookstock.

A true book lover's paradise, Bookstock has tens of thousands of donated used books, DVDs, CDs, books on tape, magazines and records for sale at bargain basement prices. Savvy shoppers and collectors can get first crack at the Bookstock Pre-Sale on Sunday, April 26 from 8:45 – 11:45 a.m. The sale will continue through Sunday May 3, running Sundays, noon- 6:00 p.m. and Monday - Saturday 10:00 a.m. – 9:00 p.m. There is a $10.00 admission charge for the Bookstock Pre-Sale only. Books will be sold for half-price on Sunday, May 3, the last day of the sale.

Bookstock has generated more than $350,000 for literacy and education programs throughout Oakland County and Detroit in its first six years alone. All books and media items sold at Bookstock are donated at collection sites throughout the year. More than 700 volunteers work together throughout the year to collect and sort donations and organize and staff the weeklong Bookstock sale.

Bookstock is sponsored by the Detroit Jewish Coalition for Literacy, the Oakland Literacy Council, the Jewish Community Relations Council, Detroit Jewish News, and a consortium of Jewish communal non-profit organizations which support education and literacy projects throughout metro Detroit. For more information about Bookstock, call the Bookstock hotline (248) 645-7840, ext. 365 or visit www.bookstock.info .

Laurel Park Place is located on 6 Mile Road, east of I-275 in Livonia.
